BACKGROUND:
FMDA was originally established in 1990, as the Florida Medical Directors Association. In 2015, following the lead of AMDA, its national affiliate, it changed its name to FMDA – The Florida Society for Post-Acute and Long-Term Care Medicine. It was founded to help medical directors, attending physicians, physician assistants (PAs), advanced practice nurses, pharmacists, and other health care practitioners in post-acute and long-term care navigate their way through the continuum. FMDA is a 501(c)(3), non-profit medical society.

GOVERNANCE:
The Board of Directors consists of the Chairman of the Board, Immediate Past-President, President, Vice President, Secretary-Treasurer, and seven other FMDA members. Each is elected for a two-year term and can be re-elected for another two-year term, except for the Immediate Past-President, President-Elect, and Chairman, who are not elected. All elections will take place at the annual meeting every two years. During a non-election year, elections will be held only for vacant offices due to unforeseen circumstances and will be good for the remaining term until the next election. Such an office will not count as a two-year term. All candidates for position as an officer must have been a physician board member within the last three years.

AFFILIATIONS:
FMDA is the official state affiliate and the largest chapter of the Columbia, Maryland-based, AMDA – The Society for Post-Acute and Long-Term Care Medicine. We are also a Specialty Society of the Florida Medical Association (FMA), and liaise with the Florida Osteopathic Medical Association (FOMA).

Through the American Board of Post-Acute and Long-Term Care Medicine (ABPLM), AMDA’s credentialing body, it sponsors a certification program in PA/LTC medical direction and offers a competency curriculum for attending physicians / ARNPs / PAs to enhance knowledge and skills in this ever-changing environment. ABPLM is chaired by Robert Kaplan, MD, CMD; Chairman of the Board, FMDA.

SCIENTIFIC POSTER PRESENTATIONS

FMDA takes an active role in outreach efforts to residents, interns, fellows, and young-career physicians with an interest in post-acute and long-term care. It offers opportunities for medical students, interns, and residents in geriatrics, internal medicine, and family practice. In addition, advanced practice nurses, pharmacists, and physician-assistant students who are interested in practicing in post-acute and long-term care are eligible to participate.

CO-SPONSORING SYMPOSIUMS

Just as we have co-sponsored geriatric symposia with Nova Southeastern University, College of Medicine’s Department of Geriatrics (Dr. Naushira Pandya, Chair), we have been co-sponsoring Florida State University, College of Medicine’s Department of Geriatrics’ (Dr. Paul Katz, Chair) Annual PA/LTC Symposium, and we are exploring joint-conferences and other collaborative projects with UCF’s College of Medicine.

ADVANCE CARE PLANNING, POLST, HOSPICE, PALLIATIVE CARE, ETC.

Advance care planning (ACP) is getting increased attention throughout our nation. New concepts have evolved – that ACP is a process, not just the signing of forms, and that people at different stages of life need different aspects of ACP. For our patients, moving from a general expression of wishes (such as a living will and appointment of a surrogate decision-maker) to a specific set of medical orders (such as a DNRO or the POLST) is desired by patients and necessary for providing effective medical care.

Providers in Florida are familiar with the DNRO (the yellow) form. This order directs EMTs, hospital or nursing home personnel, and others not to attempt resuscitating a patient if he or she experiences a cardiopulmonary arrest. It is appropriately ordered when a patient expresses a desire to forgo CPR, or when it is clear that CPR would not provide benefits to the patient. The Physician Orders for Life-Sustaining Treatment (POLST) form goes beyond that to include orders for a level of medical interventions and whether and how artificial nutrition will be used.

POLST was created to foster high-quality, patient-directed care across health care sites. Patients in the long-term-care (LTC) system are among the highest risk for experiencing transitions in care, and care being provided by multiple different providers. LTC providers nationally are among the best at providing advance care planning, since it is a fundamental part of our care. However, all too often we have seen how a deep and repeated conversation about the care plan is lost when our patients go to the hospital or another setting. Hence, the need for an effective method to communicate the patient’s wishes for medical interventions across sites of care is particularly important to us.

Half of the United States has implemented POLST. Another 24 states are developing a POLST process. Florida is in that group. Since the early 2000s the Center for Innovative Collaboration of Medicine and Law (CICML) at the Florida State University College of Medicine has been serving as the organizer of the state POLST Task Force.

Since December 2017, FMDA has been the official home of Florida POLST – as recognized by the National POLST Paradigm. FMDA is now in the perfect position to engage stakeholders and move the process forward. It has a dedicated website at www.polstfl.org.

CAREERS IN LONG-TERM CARE AWARDS:

FMDA takes an active role in outreach efforts to residents, interns, fellows, and young-career physicians with an interest in long-term care. It offers opportunities for eligible medical students, interns, and residents in geriatrics, internal medicine, and family practice. In addition, advanced practice nurses, pharmacists, and physician-assistant students who are interested in practicing in post-acute and long-term care are eligible to apply.
